Families to the Church

Families to the Church are called 'Church to families' because the Church is called 'Second Home' to families. The Church is a place where families can come together and be united in love and faith. The Church provides a safe and welcoming environment for families to worship, learn, and grow spiritually.

Church to families is a concept that aims to strengthen the connection between the Church and its members. It encourages families to participate in Church activities and events, and to actively engage in the life of the Church.

Church to families is not just about attending services or participating in religious activities. It is about building a community of faith where families can support and encourage each other, and where the Church can provide guidance and support in times of need.

Church to families is a way for the Church to reach out to families and involve them in the life of the Church. It is a way for families to feel welcomed and included in the Church community.

CHRISTO-CENTRIC FAMILY: CRADLE OF INTEGRAL DEVELOPMENT

Eparchial Assembly - 2015

Introduction

The Forane-level discussion on the Lineamenta of our forthcoming Eparchial Assembly has been successful and fruitful. We thank all those who initiative for those discussions and all the participants in the Foranes. Many inspiring and useful future programmes and strategies have emerged in those discussions. We have instrumentum laboris or ‘the working document’ of our Assembly, when the points of all those discussions are compiled and put together. Here we are giving extracts from the instrumentum laboris.

Institution of Family

- Traditional form of family has been instrumental in preserving the religious, spiritual, social and moral values among the faithful of the Eparchy of Kalyan whose large majority includes migrated people from the state of Kerala. Thus, it is important to keep the traditional form of family intact so that the future generations in the Eparchy of Kalyan are assisted in their life as Christians.
- The major challenge to the preservation of the traditional form of family is the scarcity of the desired and compatible spouses from within the Syro Malabar community, especially for girls. For this reason and for many other, marriages with persons from other religious and ethnic groups are incidental and common. The solutions to this problem need to be sought from all available sources and through aforesaid measures.
  - ‘Headship’ or the leadership of family primarily is the responsibility of the husband, who has to fulfill it with the cooperation and complementarily with the wife and other members of the family. The headship is better accepted with characteristics of being the role model of spirituality and morality, well-mannered dealings, sufficient earnings for family, sharing the responsibility of bringing up the children and the ability to make correct decisions.
  - The role and significance of fatherhood needs to be emphasized and empowered institutionally and individually. The boys should be formed, the youth should be trained in the skills and the newly married should be empowered and encouraged to take up the role of responsible fathers.
  - Spouses need to be trained to mutually understand and appreciate the roles they fulfill in the Catholic families and in the skills for complimenting each other.

Preparation for Marriage

- Marriage Preparation Course should include sessions on finance management, relationship with in-laws, moral responsibilities between the spouses, importance of prayer life, crisis management and information about the professionals to approach in crises, sharing by successful families.

- Since the parents need to play an important role in the married life of their children, they are to be trained for it during the marriage preparation course of their children and in the post-marital period.

- Parish Priest has to play a significant role in the immediate preparation for the marriage by praying for the ‘to be married’ and their family, facilitating two candidates and their families to know about each other, finding out the compatibility between the future spouses through spiritual and psychological methods, knowing the sexual and psychological disposition and preparedness of the candidates, finding out any addictions to drug or alcohol or any critical illness etc.

- The newly married are to be guided through session and individually for the early settling issues in family. They are to be encouraged to accept parenthood without much delay. The parish priest and the parish are to do whatever necessary to make the newly wedded welcome and to make them wanted members of the parish.

- Parents and other members in the family need to facilitate and help the newly married to meaningfully establish the relationship between them first and then with the other members of the family often by desisting interference and by intervening only when necessary.

- The fears and apprehensions of giving birth to the children and of bring them up should be addressed at the family level by the parents, at the parish level by the parish priest and the parishioners and associations. All possible helps like counselling, financial support, parish-level crèches should be offered to the married.

- Both during the marriage preparation course and after the marriage, the spouses need to be taught the any artificial methods of contraception and abortion are sins and against the teachings of the church.

- Young Spouses’ Movement will be a platform for the newly married and the young parents to come together for addressing distinct issues of their life. They expect spiritual guidance, companionship of the same age group, sessions on parenting, character formation of children, issues in marital relationships after becoming parents, financial management, employment opportunities etc.

- Care for the environment should be part of the religious teaching and faith formation. Awareness about the protection of the environment should be given by the example of the parents and elders, observance of a Diocesan Day of Environment, reducing the use of plastic, flex etc.

- Encourage and facilitate open and frequent communication between parents and children. There should be forums and facilities to mend the relationships that are partially or totally shut down to each other.

- Encourage for the time together of the family and extend helps to those families who find difficult to sort the lack or absence of time together

- FATHERHOOD needs to be re-established in the family: since the role of the fathers in the character formation is crucial, fathers need to find time to be with the family and wife and other members of the family need to respect and love the role of fathers in family. Boys should be taught and be formed to be good fathers.

- Senior parents are to be formed to be helpful and acceptable in-laws and graceful grandparents. Grandparent-parent relationship sets example for parent-child relationship.

- The call for Christian witnessing in the living neighbourhood can be responded well by good family living and by sharing the happiness of Christian Feasts with non-Christian neighbours.

- Personal attention and love by the parish priests to the children and others, knowing the needs of the parishioners and intervening effectively to meet them, being relation-builder between the families in the parish can create homely atmosphere in the parish, when they will see their parish church the second home.

- Respect for the elders to be developed with deliberate and calculated programmes. Through various programmes, the children and the youth should be made part of the social and charitable activities organized by parish and associations.

Pastoral Approach

- ‘Church to the families’ model to be promoted instead of ‘families to the Church’, where parish priest takes the leading role through his family visits, his personal care for the families, knowing their issues in life and finding ways to solve them.

- Parish priest could use the forum of ‘family unit meetings’ to find out, solve the issues of the families and make everyone wanted in the community.

- On-going formation to the families using different occasions of sacraments like Baptism, Solemn Holy Communion etc., where the candidate and their parents are involved in the formation.

- Coordination among all the eparchial associations while preparing their activity calendar will avoid flurry of events that take away the time for family. Associations need to evaluate and assess annually the success of the programmes during the year with the criteria of participants and the desired results.

• The leadership of the associations should be with acceptable and respected persons who are committed and talented people with vision for the future.

• Associations for the pre-catechism children, young spouses and senior citizens will help organise these sections of the faithful for their faith formation and closeness to the church.

• All associations should plan their activities to strengthen the relationships within family and should address the issues in families.

• Professional counsellors’ teams at forane and eparchial levels, whose availability should be informed through all possible means; counselling should focus individual, family-relation and financial issues.

• STUDENTS FINANCIAL FUND to give away education loans to the students with good academic qualities for quality education and good job

• Attention and care to the senior and lonely people in the parish through parish associations or Karunya Trust is important.

• Carrier guidance courses from early childhood, considering the aptitudes of the children; parents and children should be informed of the variety of available professions; carrier training centres to be set up for the last phase of giving shape to future leaders of the society and the community.

• Sessions on stress management and counselling for the students and their parents and sessions for personality development and communication skills for the youth will increase the chances of our children into high positioned jobs.

• Creating an atmosphere of prayer and leading the children into prayer by example is crucial in developing the habit of daily family prayer.

• Care for the newly baptised or non-Christian members of our families through the marriages with ‘disparity of cult’ is to extended to make sure the whole well-being of our community.

Bishop of Kalyan
Prayer of the Deacon

HOLY QURBANA - 37

Kalyan Lantern | September, 2015
Before the deacon begins the prayer of proclamation, the priest blesses him saying “May God the Lord of all strengthen you to sing His praises”.
This reminds us of the words of St. Paul that no one can proclaim Jesus as the Lord without the power of the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 12:3).

Prayer Intentions

There are two parts in this prayer of the deacon.
The first part of the prayer is for persons and the second part for intentions. The persons are remembered according to the order of their ministry in the Church. It includes patriarchs, bishops, priests, deacons, young men and virgins,
parents, brothers and sisters, sons and daughters.
Next the rulers are remembered in the prayer.
They are given two qualifications such as ‘those who love Christ and are faithful to Him’. Then all the deceased members who lived the true faith are remembered.

Eternal Life

This prayer continues invoking the remembrance of prophets, apostles, martyrs and confessors.
This prayer expresses our hope that God who is going to crown them at the resurrection of the dead may give us the hope of eternal life and a share with them in the heavenly inheritance. The community here on earth prays that this Qurbana may obtain for them the grace that one day they will also join the heavenly group in the praise of God.

Lastly the community is reminded to pray fervently that this Qurbana may be acceptable to God and that it may be sanctified by the power of the Word of God (1 Tim. 4:5) and by the working of the Holy Spirit (Rom. 15:16). Finally it is concluded invoking the grace of Christ that this Qurbana may obtain for us help and salvation and life everlasting in the Kingdom of heaven.

This is actually a significant prayer explaining and reminding us of all the intentions of the Qurbana that we offer. As this prayer is considered simply as one of those prayers recited by the children serving at the altar, the deep significance and meaning is not properly highlighted and attented to. With this prayer the part of ‘the rite of preparation’ is concluded.
ST. STANEYSLAUS

Chapter 05

He reached Billington and met Fr. Caniculous

Father, I desire to join here.

Will you get permission from home?

Since it is the will of God, he will make it possible for me.

In order to test him he was made to do hard jobs

Good, he is very obedient.

My dear child, never lose your humility.

That is the only desire I have.

God bless you my child.

You can Join at Rome for studies.

But for a short while you must stay here.

Religious life is to forget oneself and live only for Christ.
Next day Staney started off to Rome with two other companions

It is too much. I can’t walk anymore.

There will be a sacrifice behind any good deed.

can’t take such sacrifices.

Peter, a life without sacrifice will be a loss.

If we go through difficulties only we can help others in trouble.

The trials we received from our superiors is a training for us. That is for our good in future.

Come Peter, we will wait.

How could you change this much. Since you are from a royal family.

Jesus is the only person who changed me.

When he is with us we have everything. Nothing lacks in our life.

A story I read long ago goes like this.

Sam was born in a poor family where he grew up seeing his family struggle for the daily meal. Sam was a twelve year old boy who sold berries to support his family. After his school hours he used to sell fresh berries in his village. The rich and the poor equally longed for Sam to come and sell berries. Even though Sam’s family was poor by materialistic standards, his family was rich when values were concerned.

In the village there stood a huge house that had a palatial appearance. Each time he passed by the house, his heart always yearned to have a look at the sight beyond the high walls and closed gate. One day the gates were open and he did not miss the chance. He entered the gates and he was half lost in wonder. Just then the lady of the house appeared and asked what Sam was there for. Sam asked if she wanted berries. Sam kept the basket down and asked the lady to choose. Just then Sam’s attention was taken by a cage of love birds. He left the basket with the lady and went to have a closer look at the birds that were exotic to him. The lady asked Sam, “What if I keep few berries with me without your knowledge as you enjoy the birds?” Sam without taking his eyes off the birds said very casually, “I will lose some berries and you will lose the value of honesty!” The lady was taken aback and stood there in silence for a while.

Dear children, we are all born and brought up in loving families where immense importance is given to values. Right from the time you are young, your parents and teachers teach different values to be practised in daily lives. But when you grow up, and because of various circumstances you tend to choose easy ways rather than suffering because of values. Sam was a poor boy and in spite of that he chose the path of honesty and hardwork to do well in life.

In today’s world it is difficult to hold on to our values in our life. But remember, it is not impossible! Sometimes you might feel copying in exam is better than failing or feeling embarrassed. You might also feel that listening to friends is better than obeying parents. At times you might feel telling a lie is better than facing the punishment. You also might feel that missing the family prayer for an exam is completely fine. At times it is easier for you to feel that helping someone in need is not your responsibility alone when there are so many people around you to help the person in need.

Life is full of choices to make. It also gives you reasons to be worried. But in all that you do, choose the path of righteousness.

You must remember that values should not be limited to the value education textbooks and catechism classes. Values are to be practised daily. Your life does not end on this perishable earth. God the Father, who has created you, has a purpose for you on this earth and the purpose will be fulfilled in a life of values.

Have a value filled life
